Dear Ms. Reno:

This letter and the enclosures constitute another administrative claim under the Federal Tort Claims Act, addressing the corrupt cancellation of the protections under the laws and Constitution of the United States, in which Justice Department employees are implicated.

As you know, this cancellation of constitutional and statutory protections is to block my reporting of the federal crimes (in which you have become implicated by your coverup and obstruction of justice), and to block me from defending against the retaliatory acts to silence me.

Justice Department personnel and federal judges are involved. This notice to the U.S. Department of Justice will presumably meet the criteria for reporting the tortious acts to the correct federal agency.

Although this filing is an administrative claim, it does put you on notice of subversive and criminal acts against the United States, which invokes a mandatory duty on your part, which you have been refusing to perform since receiving the first notice of these crimes from me.

Lucky for you and others that are implicated, the mainstream media and Congress are so deeply implicated they will never blow the whistle on these crimes against the American people and the United States.

Sincerely,

Rodney Stich
