Ref: Notification of corrupt activities involving misuse of government offices

Representative Tauscher:

This is probably an exercise in futility, but as the events are pyramiding, I wish to make a record of the many people who were notified of serious misconduct involving national issues and who have a legal duty to have done something other than the usual cover-up.

I am attaching to this letter a copy of a letter sent to the House and Senate judiciary committees so as to make you aware of these national issues. Those letters will undoubtedly receive the same cover-ups as I have documented from the days when I first attempted to provide evidence of corruption in key government offices while I was a federal investigator in a highly sensitive position.

You have a slightly additional responsibility to do something other than cover-up on the basis that one of your constituents—me—has been severely harmed by the misuse of government power to block my reporting of these criminal activities and to retaliate against me for exercising my responsibility and my right to expose these matters.

Basically, the individual acts evolve around the following:

- My attempts to expose, and to report to a federal court under the mandatory requirements of the federal crime reporting statute (Title 18 U.S.C. § 4) the criminal activities, and the evidence of such activities, that I initially discovered as a federal investigator, and the criminal activities conveyed to me by several dozen other former federal agents. These include agents of the FBI, CIA, Customs, Secret Service, and CIA (including former heads of secret CIA airlines and CIA financial operations). Many of these criminal activities are detailed in my books, including the third editions of Defrauding America and Unfriendly Skies, the first editions of Drugging America and Disavow, the electronic versions of them, and on my various internet sites that are listed at the top of this letter. Federal judges repeatedly blocked my efforts to report these criminal activities, thereby committing felonies under Title 18 U.S.C. §§ 2, 3, and 4.
- Felony misuse by of federal courts by Ninth Circuit federal judges to retaliate against me for attempting to report these criminal activities to a federal court under the federal crime reporting statute. These are felonies under Title 18 U.S.C. §§35, 111, 153, 241, 242, 245(b)(1)(B), 246, 371, 1341, 1343, 1503, 1505, 1512, 1513(b), 1515(a).
- A series of orders were issued by Ninth Circuit judges barring me for the remainder of my life from federal court access. These unlawful and unconstitutional orders, denying me due process rights while subjected to unprecedented violations of federally protected laws, denied to me the rights and protections guaranteed by the laws and Constitution of the United States. These orders barred me from reporting the criminal activities that I and my group of other former federal agents had discovered. At the same time, federal judges issued unlawful and unconstitutional orders that inflicted great personal and financial harm upon me, for which federal defenses existed, but were denied to me.

- Unlawful and unconstitutional orders were issued by federal judges, including an order seizing the assets that funded my exposure activities. This order was issued without the legal and constitutional right to a notice of hearing, a hearing, and legally recognized cause. That order finalized the scheme that was initiated by a San Francisco law firm. After seizing my assets and starting to liquidate them, orders were issued barring me from filing any objections. When I did file objections, I was charged with criminal contempt of court. When I filed another lawsuit seeking relief from the seizure and criminal contempt of court charge, I was again charged with criminal contempt of court and sentenced to federal prison for six months, which included six weeks in solitary confinement. At that time I was almost 70 years of age and had recently undergone a six-bypass open-heart surgery. Simultaneously, my life's assets, including my home, my sole source of income, my businesses, were liquidated. There are more details to this, but this is enough to invoke the interest of anyone seriously interested in corruption in government. My web sites and my books go into details.

All of these (and much more) civil and constitutional violations, and the criminal obstruction of justice and felony retaliation for attempting to report criminal activities, were repeatedly made known to the justices of the Supreme Court through letters and petitions (most of which were refused filing on some fabricated pretense). The Justices were fully aware of the activities by judges over whom they had supervisory responsibilities and the misuse of federal courts as a criminal enterprise.

The pattern of documented judicial misconduct included obstruction of justice, retaliating against a former government agent for trying to report criminal activities to a federal court, inflicting hard-core civil and constitutional violations against me and then charging me with criminal contempt of court for exercising constitutional due process, seizing and destroying my life's assets to silence me, and much more. The Supreme Court's professed concern for everyone's due process rights, expressed in the recent Bush v. Gore matter, is shown as a farce by the Supreme Court's direct role in these criminal and even subversive activities.

In addition to this letter and the attached letter, I refer you to the data on my web sites, and particularly www.defraudingamerica.com, which focuses heavily on the corruption in the California and federal courts.

This is an ugly pattern of documented corruption in the federal courts, made even worse by the nature of the criminal acts being cover-ed up. Sooner or later the public will be made aware of these matters and the ramifications. If and when this occurs, and it may be after I am no longer on this earth, I want a record available of all those government personnel who were made aware of these matters and engaged in a pattern of cover-up. What excuses will you have, when one lone individual fought this massive corruption in government, some of it falling within your area of responsibility, and the record shows you didn't have the courage to provide meaningful assistance.

Sincerely,

Rodney Stich
